So sorry to hear this news this morning. Keller worked for me at Cold Logic as an Inventory Specialist before being promoted onto a supervisor. He was one of the special ones - I could tell as soon as I hired him - and I was not surprised that he moved up the ladder so quickly.

Every 3 months or so he would call me to see how me and my family were doing. I thought that was really cool. Such a positive energy. I left Canada to move back to the US in November of 2019 and I talked to him before we left. He was so excited to tell me about his baby. He did not mention anything about Cancer. My Condolences to his family - as I know he is deeply missed.
