Sarah,

I cannot think of anything that could be worse than the loss of a child. In thinking about the sadness surrounding this time, some small comfort may be that, though I didn't know Quinn, I know her mom is exceptional at living in the moment and cherishing the small wonders of life...so much love in such a short time. We will hold our loved ones tighter, reminded how blessed each day is. I'm so, so sorry for your loss.

— Heather and Ross

I'm so saddened to hear about the loss of your baby, Quinn. I only had to hold her the one time and was smitten ever since. Someone once told me that new Angels had to come to earth to experience the pure emotion of a parents love, then they would be bathed in it eternally when they were called back to heaven. Your sweet daughter must be shining brightly with that love.

— Scarlett

Can't imagine what your family must be feeling. Been thinking all morning of something to say that would bring you guys some comfort - words don't seem the thing here. So big deep bear hugs and love from my family to yours.

John 10:10 says "I have come that they may have life and have it to the full" and that is what I see in your family ; you live life to its fullest. I have no doubt that Quinn experienced the joy of that in her short time here. You are on my thoughts often and so know that we are praying for you and your family. I pray that you would be comforted by the greatest comforter and that He would envelop you in His peace that passes all understanding. Love from the Wiilms.

— Monique and Dean Willms

I was shocked and saddened when I read of Quinn's passing and you have all been in my thoughts constantly.

May you find strength in those surrounding you when you do not feel strong inside; may Quinn live on in the memories of those she touched so deeply; and may we all find comfort in the Cormier's being watched over by another angel. HUGS

— Keely Hall

Our hearts ache, and we are so sorry for your loss. We didn't have the opportunity to meet dear little Quinn before her passing, but our girls will still be friends, and I feel like part of Quinny's spirit is alive in Ainsley. They will be best friends someday when they are together in heaven I'm sure. :)

I know this whole experience is so shocking, and no words can change how you must be feeling. I can only imagine what you must be going through. But I want you to know that I love you.

Faith consists of believing when it is beyond the power of reason to believe. You have to know that baby Quinn was here for a reason and your connection can never be broken. Mothers & Fathers love never ends, and you were so lucky to have her, as she was to have you!

I am praying for your strength and that you find peace in knowing how blessed you are to be the parents of such a sweet little "snow angel"!

Big big hugs to all of you!

— Regan, Geoff, Ada-lyn & Ainsley Horn
