I first got to know Harry when he & my former husband (Al) worked together at Liquid Air. We had some really good times and his house was always open & welcoming.

My sympathy goes out to Clifford and Richard & families at this difficult time.

It seems that it was only a couple of weeks ago that we were chatting with Harry and his brother John in Southland Mall. We met Harry and Fern through Special Olympics and became good friends. He certainly had a zest for life and could talk about his time in England during WW2. Sad to see him go but it was a pleasure to know him and spend time with him.

John, Ann and Mark Robinson.
