— Lori Cappo

My condolences nothing can take away the pain of losing a part of your family, but time will make it easier. Find comfort in knowing she is no longer suffering and is not alone, I wish time could of been different and we could of had more time together, I will always miss you and will always love you like a sister. I will see you again someday it's not goodbye for it's see you later.

— Debbie Gallant

I will always cherish our memories of the fun times we had and spent together, drinking tea, playing cards and playing with our babies. R.I.P. Sister-in-law. My sincere condolences to The LaRocque and Caldwell families

— Brenda

Prayers and love to all of you.

— Gail Boucher

My deepest condolences to the LaRocque and Caldwell family. I've known Roberta since I was just a young girl as I grew up with Sarah. Roberta was always so kind, generous, and funny! She took me in to her home when I had none. I will never forget her generosity. Love you all ☐

— Jaqueline Anaquod

Goodbye my friend until we meet again, I am sorry I could not speak at your service as much as I wanted to I was afraid.. not afraid of speaking about you but afraid of all the years we missed together. I will always cherish the times we had together you were my best friend and like my sister, I was always included in your family no matter what, whether it was going to your aunts and uncles going to Lebret or even living with you when we had no place to go. Here I'm thinking of the times we had like going to the school dances watching how smooth you danced and how the boys liked you you were so beautiful and Halloween dances as we dressed up as KISS or having your dad drive us up and down Albert st so we could be cool getting him to park in the Canadian tire parking lot so we can check out who's there. But I'll never forget the time I was sleeping over and we had a visitor come through the bedroom wall, yes we heard a loud noise and a car hit the house as we lay in bed sleeping. I remember getting up to look through the window as we heard all this noise then all of a sudden this dresser came flying toward us and all I remember was flying through the air out the door and running...lol I remember your dad or someone yelling Debbie come back where r u going then I looked back and stopped thinking where the hell are you going..lol I was in shock I guess and bolted out of there I was just going..lol and when I came back I remember you were crying and said why did you leave me, I'm like I don't know it was a reaction I guess when the dresser was coming at us and it hit you in the knee and you were bleeding pretty bad. Yes we ended up at the hospital getting checked out and your knee getting a stitch as we were in our pj's..lol we laughed afterwards but we're scared as shit before. I will never forget when you left me and came back and you were pregnant with Sarah what a delightful surprise, then not long came Veronica then we were separated again, then you came back again with Agnes another lil beauty, we were together again, but of course not for long even though I tried getting you to stay by hooking you up with my brother in law, it didn't work cause Barry was always on ur brain so I lost you again. Barry was very nice and you loved him so much I understood, I just wished that this time when you came back it could of been different now I lost you again and again you will be back in his arms, I guess it's fate to bring you to together for eternity a love only you understand as that is hard to find, but I want you to know that I do understand and I get it as I to found that love and that is why we always got along so great, because we have the same heart and this is why I will always love you and will cherish the times we had together. Have a good rest my friend as you are back in his arms and the pain is gone. Someday we shall meet again and when that time comes we will never be separated again, so by for now and rest in peace in the arms of your love for eternity. Love always your friend.
