Friendship is not how long we have been buddies, not how much you have given or received. Not how many times we have helped each other. It's only how we value one another. Out of all the friends I have had in my life, my buddy David was who I was closest to, even closer own than my brothers. I'll never forget the last dinner we had together , David had the whole table laughing so hard we were almost choking on our food. I can't wait till I seeing you again. RIP David.

I want to wake up from this and it all be a bad dream. I can't stop thinking your going to just show up or call and be like wuz up buddy what are you doing? I know that your gone but I don't feel like it's real and no matter what I do to try and keep myself busy to help with breaking down I can't stop thinking about you every second. I don't know how to be ok with this or to accept that this is really happening that this bad dream I'm in right now is reality. I love you David every day always and forever . ☐

This has been the hardest loss I have ever had to deal with. David lived with us on and off for years. I loved him as much as my own daughter and she loved him as her brother. We were also good friends. We had a close bond and I'm so glad he was in my life for as long as he was. I just wish it could have been longer though. You were loved by so many. You brought so much laughter and joy to everyone around you. A piece of my heart will always be missing but I know you will always have it with you. RIP David. We will meet again.
