Messages of Condolence

Evald Vollman's passing is the passing of a vibrant time in your family's lives and of the Estonian community in the Vancouver area. As a child, I well remember regularly going to the Vollman delicatessen on Davie Street in Vancouver's downtown with my mother. Buying the quality products from that store set a food purchasing pattern I adhere to this day - I still buy cervelat and other sausages, plus in-store-made wieners from delicatessens whereever I live. Evald and his wife definitely made a difference in my life and I am grateful for that.
With condolences to all the family,
Helgi Kalkun-Leesment
