He was my best friend . I miss him so much everyday . He taught me a lot of very valuable life lessons. He was always there for me when there was a thunderstorm or anything. Stop all the clocks, cut off the telephone,
Prevent the dog from barking with a juicy bone,
Silence the pianos and with muffled drum
Bring out the coffin, let the mourners come.

Let aeroplanes circle moaning overhead
Scribbling on the sky the message He is Dead,
Put crêpe bows round the white necks of the public doves,
Let the traffic policemen wear black cotton gloves.

He was my North, my South, my East, my West,
My working week and my Sunday rest,
My noon, my midnight, my talk, my song,
I thought that love would last forever: I was wrong.

The stars are not wanted now: put out every one;
Pack up the moon and dismantle the sun;
Pour away the ocean and sweep up the wood.
For nothing now can ever come to any good.

I will never forget driving home with George from a Firefighters hockey tournament in Kamloops. I decided to have a short nap and woke to find that George was passing another car on the shoulder with nothing but air to our right. I looked over and George had his head back and was snoring. We put the top down on the convertible and drove the rest of the way with the top down in the middle of the winter. Other drivers must have thought we were crazy, and they were right. I will miss the craziness.
